Labour day...hip hip hooray!

The origins of this holiday date back to the late 19th century, when activists first sought to establish a day to pay tribute to workers. For many, this holiday is a reminder that summer is over and it is celebrated with BBQs and camping trips. So, if you're one of the many who use this weekend as one last hoorah for summer, remember why it began.

Raise a glass to all of the men and women who have worked so hard to build our country!
